QUALIFICATIONS OF THE FIRE MARSHAL

Cities Should Maintain Adequate Fire Protection—Duties of the Fire Chief—Expenses of Fire Protection—How to Avoid Heavy Losses

The first losses on the continent of America, being as they are, ten times that of the European countries, has raised the question of fire protection. "Where is the responsibility?" "Why is it that American houses should be "greater" and again, "the fire a real evil?"

It is a tendency of a great number of people to look upon the insurance companies as being the people responsible for the loss. After studying the situation for a time, this belief appears ridiculous as the property insured is not the property of the insurance companies, but is the property of the insured, and they pay a tax to these companies, who, in return for the same, guarantee them against loss by fire. That tax must be such as to be equal to the losses by fire, the operating expenses of the companies, and also the percentage for dividends on the money invested. This being the case, it is considered to what extent the people protect their property, in so far as the insurance people are concerned, for the latter the losses the greater must be the tax.

Then it follows that the people must create a good standard of fire protection or pay a high insurance rate for the privilege of not doing so.

The fire protection of the different municipalities is entirely in the hands of the councils of the same, and as a rule, these councils are composed of people who may have little or no knowledge in the matter of fire losses, possessing, as they now, residential property, the rates on which being practically nil as compared with the rates on the great stocks of goods carried in the congested mercantile and manufacturing areas.

Expense of Fire Protection

The expenses in connection with fire protection seem to be the least desirable property, whereas the stocks in the stores, warehouses and the manufacturing areas practically escape the fire insurance fire protection.

Let us use for an instance a common condition: A store in the center of a city is being assessed for $3000 and has a stock valued at $80,000. The store building is assessed in the municipal tax, while the stock is not, there being but a business tax to represent the stock, and this business tax is 30 per cent. of the value of the stock. Then it shows that a store of $85,000 is being protected by a tax of $2,400.

Everything that is subject to destruction by fire should be subject to a direct taxation for the expense of fire protection, on every municipality should be required to furnish information in accordance with the value therein represented. This may, in part, be responsible for conditions creating the necessity for government supervision where the fire hazards are concerned, that the causes of fire may be removed to that which is not studied by municipal men in that work.

It is in the causes of fire that work is really done, for the prevention may be discovered, and these causes are numerous, but of them all the one to be investigated is that of the incendiary. When the motive for incendiarism is burning for the insurance, the chances for success are greater by the person setting the fire. As a result the losses are heavy from such sources.

The sources through which the causes of fire are being investigated are generally the insurance companies themselves and they move to the fact feeling created towards them on account of the investigation, will hesitate before entering a fire report, and the feeling locally under such conditions may be such as to cause the deposit to be made, and the source for the way may never be rectified. If those investigations were conducted by a party not under the influence of the municipality, the fear of local influence would be removed, thus removing that difficulty.

City Should Maintain Adequate Fire Protection

When the causes of all fires are collected into one office the tendency will be to create a general condition of safety by the use of engineering from a practical standpoint. Better fire laws may be made and applied more generally, as fire has a universal influence. For instance, we may find cities that have adequate fire protection, spending a suitable amount annually to maintain an adequate condition of safety by the use of engineering from a practical standpoint. Better fire laws may be made and applied more generally, as fire has a universal influence. For instance, we may find cities that have adequate fire protection, spending a suitable amount annually to maintain an adequate condition of safety by the use of engineering from a practical standpoint.

There is a view other than that relative to financial losses in this provision that is to life in public buildings. There are many buildings in this province that are veritable death-traps, and the fire insurance companies are directly responsible for some terrible conditions, no doubt undeniably; nevertheless they are not.

We have schools that are under the supervision of an inspector, who, if fire occurs, thinking they are the architectural beauty of the city.

With the hotels of the province, the matters relative to fire are in the hands of the same commissioners. With the hotels of the province it is in the hands of school boards, and the fire inspectors who may previously have been a clerk or a mailman, is a person who has not spent hour of his life studying matters of fire prevention engineering. With the opera houses, hotel rooms, public auditoriums, the fire protection is left in the hands of city councils, who create municipal bylaws never to be enforced, and which have no influence. We have the man whose life is busy in channels other than the one he is sworn the authority to act as a judge. You find where the man who studies these conditions, having authority, and whose judgment may be tolerated, but not necessarily acted upon, must also pay for the man having the influence to get these jobs. The public must be subjected to the hazard that as a result must exist, has existed and does exist, a monument of incompetence, and engraven thereon as an epitaph the story of our fire losses.

Duties of Fire Chief

Let us take a peep at the inside works of the present-day municipal fire departments regarding matters of conditions for the safety of the public in public buildings. I will quote a sample of a part of a certain bylaw relative to the duties of the chief: Visit all schools, churches, theatres, barberies, hotels, and all public buildings in the city where a large number of people are accustomed to assemble for the purpose of securing the means of ingress and egress, and generally to make investigation regarding the construction thereof, in order that in case of fire he shall know in what manner to direct the work of extinguishing such fires. Visits to the places are made making it the duty of the chief to simply look at fire-traps, that he may know how to extinguish a fire that might occur in them.

The chief may find conditions that are extremely dangerous to the public. For instance, he may find in a theatre a middle gallery having a seating capacity of several hundred, having for a fire escape exit an outside flimsy iron stair of three feet width, this being the only emergency exit from the part of the house. There may exist numerous other dangerous conditions that might be mentioned, and while it may be his duty to report on such conditions to his committee, there the matter may stop after he has reported.

It is not reasonable that from this element competent judges in matters relative to the duty that could be made. It is sufficient to demonstrate the necessity of a commission in the provincial legislative offices composed of fire experts, men in this work. We have in this province that element of practical men who have been studying fire protection, this work, and who study the results of experiments in the arts of coping with fires and confagurations, and as they do a report of all the principal ones, in addition to the experience acquired in their own work. Then it is not reasonable that from this element competent judges in matters relative to the duty that could be made.

The duties of the office of fire marshal are to receive reports of all fires and to investigate the causes of the same. He is to be provided with a staff of fire department; where fire exists, from the committee of the fire department, and to investigate the causes of the same. He is to be provided with a staff of fire department; where fire exists, from the committee of the fire department, and to investigate the causes of the same. He is to be provided with a staff of fire department; where fire exists, from the committee of the fire department, and to investigate the causes of the same.

The qualifications of a Fire Marshal should be such as to require a man having good experience with water, water systems, electrical installations, electrolysis and its causes, fire conditions, and successful fire department discipline. An examination should be prepared for this office by competent men of the fire department, and the chief of the fire department should be the one to make the examination. The chief of the fire department should be the one to make the examination.

The appointments of fire marshals in some of the states of the United States has met with marked success. It is the duty of the fire marshal to see that the fire department is properly equipped and that the fire department is properly equipped and that the fire department is properly equipped.

Waterloo, Ont., Oct. 12.—The chiefs of police of most every city in the state are gathered here today to attend the annual convention of the police chiefs of lower Canada, which opened here today for a session of two days. Many heads of professional interest in the municipal police department are here to be discussed during the meetings and the rest of the time will be devoted to social pleasures provided by the chiefs of Waterloo.

ARBITRATION COURT AT LAST ABOLISHED

Formerly All Disputes Between Labor and Capital, in Australia, Were Settled by This Body, But System Found to Be Unworkable

(By H. Cameron)

Melbourne, Oct. 12.—It is of interest at the present juncture to note the experience of Australia in regard to arbitration courts as a method of settling labor disputes. The "Australasian," in a review of the position, contends that the experience of the various states in the Commonwealth has been an encouragement to those who advocate an extension of jurisdiction for the Commonwealth Arbitration Court.

After giving it a prolonged trial, the journal pointed out, South Australia abandoned the system in favor of the wages board principle, successfully established in Victoria. Wales, has, in effect, one this year, for, though there is still an industrial board there, with appeals for jurisdiction, the bulk of the work is done by wages boards. In Queensland, these are the only industrial tribunals, and from their decisions there is no appeal at all. Western Australia has, in effect, no industrial board, and the Arbitration Court now exists, and even there it is contended the system is found to be unworkable.

THE SAME PURPOSE IN ANOTHER WAY

When it came to the formation of a cabinet Borden did not, as was originally predicted, leave out the portfolio of labor, the storm of protest at leaving labor unrepresented no doubt having frightened the leader of the conservatives from openly carrying out an act so in line with the sentiments and traditions of his party.

But if he was afraid to ignore labor openly he was not afraid to do so through the fine conservative art of dissimulation.

Borden did not abolish the department of labor, but he accomplished the same purpose in another way. He appointed Crothers minister of labor.

CALIFORNIA DECLARES FOR DIRECT LEGISLATION

By an overwhelming majority, a majority in some precincts of more than four to one, the state of California has declared for the constitutional amendment calling for the initiative, the referendum and the recall. In San Francisco the recall got 52,997 for to 17,204 against, a majority which leaves no possible shadow of doubt as to the sentiments of the people of that city on the advisability of keeping a string on their legislators.

In California, more than any other state in the union, this vote is significant, and in San Francisco more than in any part of California. It means that the electors of the Golden State have at last revolted against the domination of a corrupt machine and have decided to take the control of the affairs of their state out of the hands of the professional politicians and place it in the hands of the sovereign people.

In doing this California has placed itself in line with the new movement. Already more than half the states of the United States have declared themselves in favor of the initiative, referendum and recall, or some part of it, and the indications are that before the next presidential election practically all but a few of the eastern and less progressive states will have come into line.

In Canada the recall has made practically no progress, no public man having yet been found with sufficient daring to bring it into the arena of active politics as a live issue. But throughout the whole of the west the farmers' organizations, which alone seem to have given the question serious study, have declared in its favor, and it may be taken for granted that somewhere here in the west will be heard the first declaration in favor of direct legislation.

HAIL INSURANCE—STATISTICS AND LOGIC

In a discussion of the hail insurance question at a board of trade meeting held in Calgary Wednesday statistics were produced to show that if a tax of half a cent an acre on all land within the province were levied it would be sufficient to indemnify the farmers of the province for all the losses from hail sustained during the season.

While the figures look altogether too small, the fact that they are accepted by such a body as the Calgary board of trade makes it worthy of the most serious investigation by the provincial department of agriculture and, if substantiated, calls for immediate action.

R. L. Shaw, member for Stettler, has already declared his intention to bring in a general hail insurance bill at the next session of the house. With Mr. Shaw, however, his argument in favor of a universal hail tax from which all hail losses would be indemnified, is not based on statistics but on general principles. His theory is that inasmuch as the farmers as a whole create the prosperity which makes land valuable, the farmers as individuals should be protected from personal loss out of this enormous unearned increment which they have created, by far the greater part of which goes to land owners other than farmers, who hold the land not for farming purposes but for speculation.

Mr. Shaw's logic is unimpeachable, except in the respect that his tax should be based on a valuation, not on an acreage, and should be made to apply to urban as well as rural property, as, in its last analysis, city property gets its valuation from the activities of the farmers quite as much as does agricultural land.

With regard to the statistics, however, it would be of great value to the legislature when the question comes up to have the exact figures at hand and a special inquiry in the meantime would be a service of considerable advantage to the province.

JUST PARAGRAPHS

Conservative papers which a month ago were charging Sir Wilfrid Laurier with disloyalty are now offering him the high commissionship. "Ain't it funny what a difference just a few hours make."

With the Italians about to come into possession of the Holy Land, Mark Twain's famous quip about the tourists who would be greeted by the railway brakeman's announcement of "Joppa Junction, change cars for Jericho and Jerusalem," is more than likely to come true.

CONVICTS LEAVE MOOSE JAW JAIL

WERE AWAITING EXTRADITION TO NORTH DAKOTA—CLASSED AS DESPERATE MEN.

(Western Associated Press.)
Moose Jaw, Oct. 13.—"Thirty" men broke jail from here tonight. How they got away without being seen is somewhat of a mystery, but they are certainly free and up to a late hour tonight they have not been recaptured. They got away by making a hole through the wall at the back of the cell into the elevator shaft. Discovery was made at 7:30 and at once the cry all over town was made but to no avail. The men have been here six weeks, having been arrested on the suspicion of being concerned in the robbery of a hardware store at Komar, N. D.

When arrested the prisoners had enough guns on their persons to suggest they travelled for a time in arms factory. The sheriff from Mundome here and identified them. They have been given the extradition proceedings. Their names are Weber, Brown, and Anderson, and one of the confirmed criminal class.

Another man in an adjacent cell had the same opportunity to escape, but did not take advantage of it.

HEAVY SHIPMENT OF GRAIN TO EAST

FIRST CLASS WEATHER GREATLY ACCELERATED HARVESTING OPERATIONS IN WEST.

(Western Associated Press.)
Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—With the return of fine weather great harvesting has been made with the crops. For the first few days of the month little harvesting could be done as the ground was too wet, but now all over the west the work is proceeding rapidly with the result that the railroads are moving vast quantities of all kinds of grain. On October 10, the Canadian Northern moved 118,000 bushels of grain, and yesterday the amount totalled 405,000 bushels, this is a record for this year, as far as the C. N. is concerned.

The movement is getting heavier each day, and this total will likely be beaten in the next week, as the farmers are now able to move their wheat from the fields to the elevators, and as the rail held the railroad up for some time, the supply of cars throughout the west is large and is sufficient for the present at least.

LETHBRIDGE MAN IS FREED BY JURY

WAS CHARGED WITH MURDER OF HALF BREED IN OCTOBER 1907.

(Special to the Capital.)
Lethbridge, Oct. 13.—After being out 4 hours, the jury found Geo. Whitford, "Not Guilty," of the murder of Victor Thomas, on October 1, 1907. In discharging the prisoner, Chief Justice Hare, said: "The jury have believed your story against the evidence of the state, and you are discharged." Whitford told a story that contradicted that told by two men, who claimed to have seen him kill Thomas. The verdict came as a surprise to the public, who had been following the case. The general opinion being that the verdict of non-slaughter would have been returned.

ITALIAN IS GIVEN A LENGTHY TERM

FOUND GUILTY ON TWO CHARGES OF BURGLARY—ROBBED VIC-TORIA RESIDENTS.

(Western Associated Press.)
Victoria, B. C., Oct. 13.—Two sentences of seven and five years at New Westminster penitentiary, were given by Judge Lammont, this morning, to G. Goscoe, alias G. Desmond, alias J. W. Goscoe, an Italian said to be the leader of Italian thieves who operated in Victoria during last summer.

Goscoe was convicted on two charges of burglary, the first at the St. Francis hotel, where he stole $140 worth of jewelry, and the second at the residence of Mrs. Metcalf, 914 Panders street, where he stole $141.80.

On the first charge which was heard on Monday, Goscoe sat five years and was not defended by counsel, this morning, however, Mr. Robinson, of Vancouver, represented him. Leaving court in custody this morning, Goscoe in English asked how long he was without a lawyer and seven with a lawyer. Throughout both trials he had persisted that he could not read or understand English.

POLICE COURT CASES

Three men who had misjudged their capacity for holding liquor, were last night gathered in by the police, and in court this morning were fined the customary four and eight.

M. Stikchew, remanded from yesterday charged with theft of a suitcase from the St. James hotel, was this morning found guilty and sentenced to three months hard labor in the provincial jail.

Wm. Larston was up for being drunk and disorderly in his home.

The proprietor of the house where the disturbance took place, in his evidence told how Larston and another man had been drinking and threatening to knock his head off. All evidence was all against the accused, so his contribution to the court was ten dollars and costs.

A charge of fighting and creating a disturbance was laid against Mike Reid.

Wm. Marshall, accused of stealing one overcoat, suit, etc., from the Jasper hotel, was sent for trial in the district court.

Residents of Seventh street also felt that they had been unfairly treated by the engineer's department, who refused the council to the effect that the home-guarding of Seventh street north of the track, which was commenced some time ago, had been abandoned, and they asked that the work be immediately resumed. Mayor Armstrong declared that the department's refusal was one of a misunderstanding. The work has not been abandoned, and if any delay had occurred, it had been occasioned by the necessity of filling in a portion of the street.

City Boys Land.
For the purpose of the children's shelter, the half block of land on the west side of First street, between Sheldahl and Calgary streets, has been set aside. It will be placed at the disposal of Superintendent Chadwick, and will be used if required for future extensions of the shelter.

To Widow York Street.
A plot of land, 97 by 125 feet, in block 6, Norwood, will be purchased from C. B. Bevington, at a price of $15,000 cash. The property is situated at the corner of York street and Norwood boulevard, and its acquisition is deemed essential to the completion of the widening of York street in accordance with a plan received some time ago. Only 35 feet of the eastern portion of block 6 are needed by the city for this purpose, but the commissioners in recommending that the larger area be acquired as they were of opinion that "the proceeds of the sale would more than cover the difference in price of acquiring the 35 feet first offered and the whole of Mr. Bevington's interest in the property."

Local Improvements.
Various local improvements were authorized. In addition to the work mentioned below a 4 foot sidewalk on the south side of Alberta avenue from Kirkness to the exhibition grounds, and a 6 foot sidewalk on east side of York from Willow to Oak avenue, will be advertised.

The work which was approved by the council is as follows:
Plank Walks.

SHOULD ERECT A WOLFE MONUMENT

WILL COST APPROXIMATELY $20,000—VANCOUVER SUBSCRIBES $8000—T. C. WOOD SPEAKS

A particularly interesting and instructive address on the question of Canadian responsibility in the matter of providing a suitable monument to commemorate General Wolfe, leader of the victorious English forces at the battle of the Plains of Abraham, was delivered yesterday before the Edmonton Canadian club at a luncheon held at 4 o'clock in Lewis' cafe, Jasper avenue.

Mr. Wood traced the history of British influence in America showing how, prior to the seven years' war, the French were in the ascendancy in the new world and how the English people were beaten at every turn and kept hemmed in the narrow strip of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the St. Lawrence and the sea until Wolfe arose as a leader of the British forces to fight the battle of the Plains of Abraham.

He pointed out that without Wolfe there would have been no Canada, in fact there would have been no great British empire, for the Dominion now occupies the most important place in the imperial scheme of things. He said that at present the place where Wolfe is buried at St. Alfege church, Greenwich, is marked only by a grating over the crypt in which his body rests and placed before his grave is a plaque to erect at the grave of General Wolfe a suitable monument, which would show the appreciation of Canadians for the work that he great soldier accomplished during his lightning days in America.

In tracing the history of Wolfe's career as a soldier Mr. Wood made the statement that as Nelson was the naval hero of the British people, Wolfe should be the hero of the British land forces. Nelson protected the empire in time of great danger but it was Wolfe who by his successes in Canada laid the foundations of the empire for which Nelson fought. This was one of the chief reasons why a suitable monument should be erected to his memory.

Would Cost $20,000.
Mr. Wood proposed to collect funds for the erecting at Wolfe's grave of a monument costing about $20,000. The project has been laid before the Canadian club in Vancouver and by the time the club meets on October 10, 1911, it is expected that $25,000 will be subscribed. Committees to take hold of the matter have been appointed in London, Winnipeg and Toronto, and Mr. Wood asked that a committee of members of the Canadian club here should be appointed to the same purpose. By a motion of Colonel E. B. Edwards, seconded by Alex. Stewart, K.C., the matter was left in the hands of the executive of the club.

At the conclusion of Mr. Wood's address, Sir Andrew Fraser, ex-governor of Bengal, who delivered an address on conditions in India at the First Presbyterian church last night, spoke briefly. He said that he always had been a great admirer of Wolfe and ever and of an opportunity to tell what he knew of that section of the British Empire in which he has spent the greater part of his life. Every Canadian should be proud to belong to the empire which Wolfe created, and he hoped that every resident in the Dominion would realize the importance of his first soldier, Wolfe, and ever and of an opportunity to tell what he knew of that section of the British Empire in which he has spent the greater part of his life. Conservatives of Country Are in Favor of Sweeping Away All Forms of Constitutional Government--Alsace Lorraine Ruling Arouses Their Ire

(By Carl Waldemar.)
Berlin, Oct. 12.—One of the features of the past summer in Germany has been a series of more or less violent attacks on the Emperor, not by the Socialists or other democratic elements, but by the extreme reactionary conservatives, who represent in politics the interests of the great Prussian landowners.

The Conservatives in Germany are not merely opposed to every kind of political and social progress, but they are actually retrograde in their tendencies, inasmuch as it is their desire to annihilate monarchies, wherever they find them, and to replace them by the despotic rule of the imperial legislature, and to sweep away such slight traces of constitutional government as already exist. They hold about seventy seats in the Reichstag, out of a total of 327, but their numerical strength does not adequately represent their real power in the country.

The ruling class is predominantly conservative, and Conservatives hold the most important administrative posts in the government service, so that their influence is enormous. As a rule, they make a great point of their loyalty to the Kaiser and of their devotion to the crown, but just now they are bitterly discriminated against in all matters of importance, and their position is one of utter despair.

An innovation introduced by the Imperial government has incurred their hostile criticism. The recent dissolution of constitutional government in the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, which were conquered from France in the great war of 1870-1871, and which, since their acquisition by Germany, have been administered as Crown lands, meaning that they have had no voice in the control of their own affairs, is what started all the trouble.

The Emperor appointed a Viceroys, and that official, together with a complete staff of civil and military officials, throughout the country, ruled the two provinces. The inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine had no representation in the Imperial government, and were thus deprived of the elementary rights of citizenship, especially in regard to taxation. Kaiser Wilhelm swept away their disabilities by promulgating a constitution for both provinces, granting them their own state legislatures, together with representation in the Federal Council of the Empire, but this act of political justice, which reflects credit on the Emperor, was highly displeasing to the reactionary Prussian Conservatives. Alsace and Lorraine, according to the Conservative version, are so close to the French frontier and peopled so largely by a population of French descent, that the possession of full constitutional rights involved a grave danger to Germany, inasmuch as they would probably exploit their newly gained political power not to control their own local affairs efficiently but to promote the resurgence of the two provinces by France. The Emperor, on the other hand, acted on the belief that the best method of political education would tend to make them happy and contented citizens of the German Empire, and thus remove precisely that danger which the Conservatives see in the new order of things.

Another cause of complaint by the Conservatives is found in the action of the Imperial Secretary of State for the Interior, who, in the course of his seeking the fulfillment of the socialist party in the Reichstag on certain matters. The problem size of a modern battlefield has been the subject of discussion recently among German experts, who have been stimulated thereby by a book by General Falkenhayn, one of the most important military authorities in the country. The conclusions at which the participants in this interesting debate arrive refer to the possibility of the annihilation of a battlefront which a battlefront in a twentieth century war would assume.

General Falkenhayn discusses the theoretical case of an army of 1,200,000 men engaged in battle with a rival force of approximately the same number, and he says that the operations would extend over an area fully 200 miles from side to side, and not less than 150 miles deep—that is, from the rear of one army to the rear of the other, that in an army of one million and a quarter soldiers would be a comparatively small one in up-to-date warfare, for forces of this numerical strength took the field so long ago as the Franco-German campaign in 1870, since when enormous developments in military matters have been made.

A struggle between two great European military powers, in a quite possible, and, indeed, probable, that the number of the opposing forces would number something like three million troops, for Germany, France, Russia, and Austria-Hungary are all capable of sending such armies to the front without touching their respective last lines of reserves. If two such mighty armies engaged in battle, the result of their operations would probably extend over a distance of miles from side to side, while the distance from the rear of the one force to the rear of the other could hardly be less than 300 miles. Thus the battlefield would have an area of 150,000 square miles.

Covered Four Miles.

When Frederick the Great found his battles the eighteenth century, the field of operations never extended more than four miles from side to side, and in the Russo-Japanese war, when, owing to the great distance from the respective bases, there were never more than a few hundred thousand troops simultaneously in action, the battlefield remained limited in extent. Will the generals of the future be equal to the almost superhuman task of directing operations extending over such immense areas? Every army must have a commander-in-chief, and that generalissimo must control the movements of all the troops united under his orders. He will have all the latest technical devices at his disposal, hundreds of miles of telegraph and telephone wires will be rapidly laid in order that he may exchange orders and communications with his auxiliary officers.

Improved Weapons

There will be motor cars and flying machines, aeroplanes, balloons and apparatus for wireless telegraphy and radio-phony, besides other modern contrivances for signalling. Will these suffice to surmount the purely technical difficulties involved in establishing effective communication over such an area, especially as they will have to be meted out and equipped by service in a very short space of time? And if they furnish a perfect communicating medium will there be any human brain capable of intelligently directing the enormous supplies which will be needed to sustain such a war? Are the sources and of working out in his mind the profoundly complex problems connected with the maintenance of millions of human beings of war? Would Mother, the greatest strategist of all time, if he were alive, be able to handle modern armies of millions, with the case and elegance of a chess player? Are the great armies created by the leading countries of Europe really efficient instruments of war, or are they complicated machinery linked down under the stress of actual hostilities?

All of these questions are occupying the minds of German experts, but only a way can supply a conclusive reply to them. This is, however, a point of inclination among many competent judges to regard the countless losses of the great Powers as inevitable, not because it is thought that they are too big and unwieldy to be handled with facility, and because no human brain can surmount the difficulties of directing their movements with precision.

German society women and favorite actresses—Who between them make up the enormous German army—have begun to wonder to do away with the old-fashioned leather breeches and other military trappings derived from the past.

PLAN OVERTHROW OF FRENCH GOVERNMENT
Banks Have Promised to Open Fund of $10,000,000 to Overthrow the Republic

(Globe News Cable)
Brussels, Oct. 12.—A story is told here concerning Princess Clementine's intention to organize a revolution in which, it is said, has increased the hopes of the latter in the success of a conspiracy against the French regime. Paris bankers, according to this story, have received a summons to the Princess's residence at Spain, and have promised to open a fund of $10,000,000 for the purpose of overthrowing the Republic.

Prince Victor Napoleon, the husband of the Belgian Princess, has a committee in Paris, which is said to be spreading a "Romanian" feeling in the French army and among the members of parliament.

Of course, if the French government make a complaint the Belgian government would have to warn the Princess that conspires against a neighboring nation could not be tolerated in Belgium, and the daughter of King Leopold, if she persisted, would have to leave the country.

PARIS ASSURED WATER SUPPLY

HOT WEATHER IN JULY CAUSED SHORTAGE—TO $200,000,000 ON MACHINERY

Paris, Oct. 12.—The serious inconvenience suffered during the hot weather of July, and the danger of an epidemic through lack of pure water seem at last to have led the municipality of Paris, and the prefecture, to agree on the necessity of taking immediate steps to guard against any recurrence of a similar situation. Hitherto all that has been done has amounted merely to makeshifts, but the majority of the municipal council is said to be favorable to guaranteeing of any cost an unlimited supply in the future. According to statements in the press, said to be based on good authority, a credit of $25,000,000 is already voted to be incorporated in the coming loan of $180,000,000, and out of the first installment of $3,000,000 will be employed in the purchase and placing in operation of the pumping and filtering stations of St. Maurice, which next year will then supply 40,000,000, 80,000,000, and 100,000,000 liters of water, in addition to the 60,000 cubic meters from the Seine.

M. Comol d'Albige asks to have the free spending of the rest of the money to be used for the necessary repairs in the supply damaged for water and cleansing the streets during the Paris water of the epidemic before the water from the Rhone or Lake Leman can be available. In his scheme is already an excellent system for the water from the Rhone or Lake Leman can be available.

In at least 50,000 cubic meters of spring water from Provins—both in summer and winter, and in the winter, and up to 1914, at least, Paris would have to depend for its drinking water on its old reservoirs and on the water from the Rhone or Lake Leman. The plan of the programme is old, and has been followed in the past, and is deferred for years past.

The second part, however, is entirely new. It contains in substance a credit of between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 for bringing directly to Paris the water of the Rhone or Lake Leman, and for the construction of the large Swiss lakes. One of the principal engineers of the municipality is already on his way to make a preliminary report on the best system to be adopted, and it is said that the first Swiss water might be drunk in Paris in seven years if the credits are voted and the works begun at once. It is calculated, according to the plans already drawn up, that the alpine water will supply 400,000 cubic meters a day, summer and winter, and no artificial elevation will be required as the pressure is supplied by the difference of level. Paris would then be supplied with a practically unlimited water supply, and would also be practically unlimited supply of pure water. At least, this water is supposed to be chemically pure and is now being analyzed.

Grows Hair on Bald Heads

BALD-HEADED PEOPLE MAY GET A NEW CHANCE IN LIFE

In these days when youth is the moving factor in business, when a man makes his mark at thirty-five and is ready to retire at forty-five, when business houses prosper, the man who call "middle-aged" rather than young, for a lasting influence to thrive upon the commercial crisis, a bold hair is almost fatal for many men's hopes. The bald man must therefore prove intelligent to people who are losing their hair or who are bald.

Recent science of the latest and most effective hair restorer, the famous "33" Hair Tonic, which is both germicidal and stimulant, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its nutriment and also creates a clean and healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Phosphorus is a well-known agent for restoring the hair to its natural color, where the loss of color has been due to the loss of the scalp. Yet, it is a coloring matter or dye. This combination of nutritive mixed with phosphorus is a stimulant perfect in its effect, remedy for hair and scalp troubles.

The famous Remedy "33" Hair Tonic is chiefly composed of Boreo, Beta Naphthol, and Phosphorus. It helps to make the scalp healthy, to nourish the hair, to stimulate the follicles. Where the hair is already here, it cures the scalp, and where the hair is not, it stimulates the follicles, and stimulates a new growth.

We want you to try a few bottles of Remedy "33" Hair Tonic on your personal guarantee that the trial will cost you a penny if it does not give you absolute satisfaction. That's proof of our faith in this remedy and that we are not unduly anxious to demonstrate that we know what we are talking about when we say that Remedy "33" Hair Tonic will grow hair on bald heads, cures, of course, where baldness has been of some long duration, that the roots of the hair are entirely dead, that the follicles closed and grown over, and the scalp is glazed.

Remember, we are basing our statements upon what has already been accomplished by the use of Remedy "33" Hair Tonic, and we have the right to assume that what it has done to hundreds of others it will do for you. In any event, you cannot lose anything by giving it a trial on our liberal guarantee. Remember, you can get Remedy "33" Hair Tonic in this country only at our agents. The Retail Store, A. Archibald.

NEWS AND REVIEWS OF THE SPORTS

ESKIMOS PLAY IN CALGARY SATURDAY

Expect Hard Game, But Are Confident of Defeating Rough Riders—Team Will Be Accompanied by Many Enthusiastic Supporters

The "Y" team had a good workout last night, putting on a fine line of touches for their game with the Tigers tomorrow. They included in signal practice, and will spring some new ones Saturday.

Purney, the star half-back of last year, will appear on the "Y" line-up.

Y. M. C. A. have added another star to their team, in the person of E. Wilson, who played on the championship team of the University of Michigan. With his speed and experience, he will make a valuable addition to the team. He will play inside wing against the Tigers on Saturday.

Word has been received from the Manitoba Football Union that they would like to enter into arrangements with the "Y" team, where, by due reservation, the two leagues would come together in a play-off for the championship of Western Canada.

A game between the two leagues would be sure to arouse great interest amongst followers of the sport, and would be a big boost to the game in this province.

Though nothing has been done yet in the matter, it is very probable that the Secretary of the "Y" team will get into touch with the Manitoba authorities, and that arrangements will be made to have the game played at some arrangement, like place, it is likely that the winners of the Manitoba League would come to the game, as the expense of home and home games would be quite heavy.

In an interview with Deane White, he gave it as his opinion that a game such as this would be the best thing that could happen to the sport in the Prairie Provinces, and he will do what he can to promote the idea.

It is early in the season yet, but local followers of the game entertain a sinking suspicion that the championship of the league is going to rest in Edmonton this year, so we will likely have a chance to see Winnipeg, or Brandon in action. The game would be sure to bring out an immense crowd, and would strengthen the championship in which the great Canadian sport is held.

The Eskimos will leave at 1 a.m. tomorrow to do battle with the Rough Riders on the latter's own stamping grounds, Saturday afternoon. The team had a final workout Thursday, and look to be in great shape for a hard game. But few changes have been made from last Saturday, Brydon going on at quarter in place of Hays, while Combes moved into middle wing. Quite a demand has been made for excursion tickets, and the team will be accompanied by a large number of rooters. Reports have it that the Rough Riders have been strengthening up in a twelve-round bout in the city. The men have agreed to meet and all that remains is to arrange the details of the bout. The bout will arrive in Edmonton within a few days from Saskatoon, where he has been disposing of money corners, and as the result of those numerous scraps, is in the condition. Lombard will start training at once and should be in good shape at the end of a couple of weeks. The date and place of the fight has not yet been decided, but an announcement will be made in a few days regarding that.

1904—Pittcher Mathewson, New York.

1905—Infielders Dondhue and Hebe, Chicago.

Above is the list of heroes brought into the line by the world's series of the last decade. Just now, the public is beginning to speculate which players will earn the laurels and draw riches in the hall of fame in the series which will begin October 13. Eddie Collins may repeat; Jack Gombis may also turn the trick these months. Gombis caught attention to bring the plaudits—going in Thomas may attract the crowd. The series will be a battle of the great players, and in Frank Baker, the champion home run manufacturer of Stuffy Melins, the "kill" turer of the Athletics.

Jumping over into the camp of the Giants, possible heroes may turn up in the persons of Christy Mathewson, again. Chief Myers, Hubo Marquari or Markle, the most-hated man in all Manhattan, the night of September 21, 1908. H.S. PLAY RED DEER

The Edmonton High school hall team leaves on the excursion train with the Eskimos, and will be dropped off at Red Deer, where they will try conclusions for the intercollegiate championship of the province, tomorrow.

The boys have been practicing faithfully for this game, and are very confident they can bring home the cup. Every encouragement should be accorded the boys in their games, as it is right here that the material for our future big league teams will be recruited.

The Edmonton team will line up as follows:

Goal: G. English; full-backs, Fuller and Hicks; half-backs, Gowers, Keffner and Carmichael; forwards, Jaffray, Thompson, Perrison, Whistler and Love.

ORIGIN OF FOOTBALL

By WIL. D. HEALD.

What was the origin of football, and where was the game first introduced? We have queries and incontestable information concerning the origin of football, and its gradual evolution, but the birth and development of "soccer," seems veiled in the mists of obscurity. Certain it is, however, that the game football, as we know it, but human crumens was introduced to a football football. Sir Walter Scott, in his account of that unmanageable hostility and predatory warfare between the Scotch and the English in the middle ages, relates as follows:

In a fierce encounter near Melrose, the English, under the command of Mursar, governor of Berwick, were defeated by Earl of Douglas. The battle was decided by the personal exertion of Archibald Douglas, who, with a sword which he had taken from the English, and with the fury of his blows, their (the Scots) rathos was now greater and stronger than usual; for even swine, which they used formerly to spare or neglect, did not escape them; and there were in the midst of their driving off forty thousand head of booty in successful pursuit. They are said to have used themselves by playing football with the heads of the slain.

PRESS AGENTS SAY

MADAME SHERRY.

The extraordinary popularity of "Madame Sherry," which comes to the Empire Theatre on Monday, October 16th, is undoubtedly due to the perfect melody, "Every Little Movement," so industriously employed from the rise of the curtain to its final fall. It is certainly timely, seductive, irresistible, and it is worked into the plot of the piece with some skill and builds up many a dancing effort. The dancing, too, is a large element of the production and is extremely attractive, although at times it is somewhat suggestive of the lascivious. "The Birth of the Butterfly," in the first act, sung and danced by Yvonne and a number of young women, is very pretty and, in addition to the various dancing incidents suggested by "Every Little Movement," there is also an elaborate dance near the end of the second act, as is a plot exponent. More dances in other acts and of various styles are provided by various characters.

NORDICA'S GOOD NATURE.

Mme. Lillian Nordica is noted for her sweetness of disposition. It is said that she has never been known to lose her temper. In fact, the diva nurses as her recipe for the preservation of youth and beauty, "Keep good nature." Her own adherence to that motto was strikingly shown at an afternoon concert, where she gave in Washington, D.C., a few months ago. There was a small sized riot at the theatre, owing to there having been more standing room sold than the law would allow, and when Mme. Nordica arrived, in excited group of women surrounded her as she stepped from her carriage and warmly greeted her by saying that they got their rights. The diva was helpless for a moment, then a brilliant thought struck her, and she suddenly invited them all in at the stage entrance, and there disposed in the wings they enjoyed the concert and there is now a small colony of female enthusiasts in that city ready to champion any cause Lillian Nordica may advocate. It is safe to say that if she were ever gets in, and Mme. Nordica still waits, as she is said to, a scandalous loss for her husband, George W. Young, that she can count on their votes. Nordica sings at the Empire Theatre November 1.
